AI-Powered Insights Just For You

Here's what our AI has discovered from your marketing data

What's Working Well

The business seems to be thriving with campaigns associated with Google and direct email sources; notably campaigns like 'exclusive_offer' and 'seasonal_offer' through search and email have high engagement. LinkedIn and Facebook also show consistent activity indicating strong presence in social campaigns.

Areas for Improvement

Twitter campaigns and content-driven UTM parameters seem less effective, with campaigns like 'back_to_school', 'spring_clearance', and 'summer_launch' indicating lower conversion or engagement, possibly pointing to a mismatch in medium suitability or content relevance.

Recommended Action Items

Focus on amplifying Google search and direct email campaigns as they drive more engagements. Optimize social media campaigns on Facebook and LinkedIn by exploring different times and targeted content that resonates with the audience. Experiment with Twitter content strategy to refine messaging and improve appeal. Consider personalized email sequences to enhance direct engagements.

Additional Insights

Higher opt-ins are clustered around the 11:00 AM - 1:00 PM time frame, possibly indicating peak engagement hours. Days with content-driven campaigns like 'valentines' and 'new_year' seem to have potential for growth if optimized, suggesting testing different content strategies or more targeted demographic or psychographic segmenting.
